The detail that characterizes this family is given by a metal bracket with staples in the upper area of the eyelashes.

It is a concept exclusively for optical designs, proposed in very feminine and iconic forms of the AH brand.

In the two metal models, the decoration is inserted on an eyebrow, also in metal, enamelled, in tone with the color of the terminal.

Four colors are available for the following metal models. All metal components are made of steel.

This family is recognizable for the elegant and sinuous transparent acetate temple, with a steel core inside enriched by a two-color design, tone on tone and AH logo.

The particular construction of the temple is given by an exclusive process that consists in coating the internal core with a special resin and subjecting it to subsequent finishing processes.

For both models there are four colors, which migrate from the most subtle and transparent, to havana and black.
